DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

1. Claims 1-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.
2. The language, of claims 1 and 9, is confusing to the Examiner. Examiner is unsure about what is being claimed by Applicant. For example, what are "information channels"? Are the information channels voice and/or data? Applicant also uses terms that are unclear to the Examiner, such as "common signaling channel." Should this be "common channel signaling"?
3. The claims are generally narrative and indefinite, failing to conform with current U.S. practice. They appear to be a literal translation into English from a foreign document and are replete with grammatical and idiomatic errors.
4. Due to the 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph problem discussed above, Examiner is unable to compare the claims with the prior art.

Conclusion

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Hiraiwa et al (US 5,333,187) teach a switching system for
